Community Unity Celebrated Again

2015 Event Marks 6th Huntington Awareness Day

(HUNTINGTON STATION, NY... September 18, 2015) – There was “Unity in the Community” and a major show of spirit and pride as Suffolk Legislator Lou D'Amaro (D-Huntington Station) joined other local dignitaries at the parade to kick off the Sixth Annual Huntington Awareness Day on Saturday, September 12th in Huntington Station.

Recently-retired Suffolk County Police Department (SCPD) Second Precinct Inspector Edward Brady served as the parade's grand marshal and was honored along with SCPD Officer Mark Collins, 101-year-old Huntington Station resident Sophie Sarro, Korean War Veteran Franklin LaBarbara and the Harris and Sorrentino families, long-time residents and supporters of the community. Neighbors and visitors lined the streets to show support for the community and then enjoyed the free day-long festival at the Northwest LIRR commuter parking lot.

"Huntington Awareness Day is a wonderful family-friendly event that brings out the entire community and provides a great opportunity to demonstrate neighborhood pride in and around Huntington Station," said Legislator D'Amaro. "I thank the many wonderful volunteers, especially Co-Chairs Dolores Thompson and Keith Barrett of the Huntington Station Business Improvement District who worked tirelessly for many months to make this a special and successful day."
